

Panama Authorized Visa

AUTHORIZED VISA AND EXEMPTION

Panama has visitor restrictions for citizens of certain countries, primarily in Africa and the Middle East, based on health or security concerns. These citizens require an authorized tourist visa before entering the country. The application can be made through the nearest Panamanian Consulate or Embassy at their home countries or in the neighboring country's Panamanian consulate. There are two types of authorized visa.

The tourist authorized visa;

The authorized visa to process residency.

Some foreigners apply for a tourist authorized visa. Once in Panama, they apply for the authorized visa to process residence because to request this visa, you need to present all the paperwork as if you are applying for the residency in Panama.

The applicant must submit a request 60 days in advance because it is the Panama National Council of Public Safety and National Defense, who verifies the application and provides an answer. This National Council, along with the National Immigration Service, have full discretion to decide whether to approve or not the Authorized Tourist Visa.
